It's a Girl at Last In 'Boys Only' Town

MANSBO, Sweden (UPI)—The 2,000 residents of Mansbo had special reason to celebrate the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Gunnar Norlander. She is the first girl born in the town in 16 years. Mansbo is a "boys only" town. Most of the men work in a chlorite of aluminum factory.

Milk Price Up

Residents in Greater Victoria will pay a cent more for a quart of milk after today.

The increase to 25 cents a quart was announced yesterday by a spokesman for the Victoria Pasteurized Milk Distributors Association.

He said the increase was effective, Thursday.

New contract agreements between four major Victoria dairies and their 200 union employees, and a 22.2-cent a hundredweight increase being paid to milk producers, are factors behind the price boost.

"A fresh round of increases last month left the distributors with no alternative but to advance the price," distributors said.

"The milk industry has been faced with continuous increases in its operating costs but, up till now, has been able to absorb them through greater efficiency and new methods," they said.

A union spokesman said he felt the general public will show "very little opposition" to the one cent rise, but he was sorry to see it go up, because we had taken a small raise in the hopes it wouldn't go up."

Berlin Unites NATO

PARIS (CP)—A solid rank of North Atlantic Treaty powers Tuesday pledged full support to the Western Big Three in their determination to reject Russia's demand that they get out of West Berlin. (See other stories on Page 5.)

The annual NATO council meeting also declared readiness to negotiate with Russia on Germany and on European security and disarmament.

The 15 powers declared NATO "could not approve a solution of the Berlin question which jeopardized the right of the three Western powers to remain in Berlin as long as their responsibilities require it."

Six Miles in 30 Minutes

Man Swims Hell's Gate —And Lives

YALE (CP)—Frogman Louis Lourmais completed a dizzying seven-mile swim Tuesday through boiling Hell's Gate, a narrow rock gorge in the Fraser River.

It has been described as the world's most vicious stretch of water.

Lourmais stepped from the river at Yale after being carried by the water at speeds greater than 20 miles an hour through the rapids.

He was believed the first swimmer ever to make the swim.

Residents of the area had called his attempt "certain suicide."

The Breton frogman is attempting to swim 600 miles down the Fraser from Prince George to the coast to prove that skindivers can be used in B.C. industry in winter. He has completed about three-quarters of the distance along the ice-jammed river.

Lourmais was reported groggy from being slapped and tossed by waves 15 feet high. He shot through Hell's Gate in less than 30 minutes.

He suffered a slightly cut head by waves which were described by a member of the party as "hard as concrete."

A spokesman for the swim party said Lourmais' face mask was shattered on a rock as he was tossed through the rock-walled gorge.

Lourmais stepped into the Fraser near Boston Bar shortly after 1 p.m.

Lourmais' wife, Lillian, had said she would complete the swim to the coast should anything happen to her husband in Hell's Gate.

He had given himself a 50-50 chance of surviving today's epic battering.

Lourmais plans to enter the river north of Yale today for a 35-mile swim to Hope. He plans to reach Chilliwack Thursday and his goal — the coast — on Friday.

Project Planners Say Salmon Safe

By ALEC MERRIMAN

A $521,000,000 multi-purpose program to build 11 dams on the upper reaches of the 850-mile-long Fraser River was outlined yesterday in the Fraser River board's preliminary report on flood control and hydro-electric power in the Fraser River basin.

The partial development plan recommended by the board includes eight power sites which could produce more than 1,500,000 horsepower of hydro-electric power.

FLOOD CONTROL

But main object of the proposed dams is to provide flood control for the lower levels of the Fraser Valley.

The whole plan would be economically self-supporting through the power produced.

The federal fisheries department says the project can be carried out with no major harm to the Fraser River salmon fishery which from 1952 to 1955 had a wholesale value of $20,900,000, or 40 per cent of B.C.'s salmon fishery.

NOT AFFECTED

The famed Adams River would not be affected by any of the projects.

But the plan to save fish is expensive as far as power is concerned. Optimum development of the power on the Fraser River would amount to about 7,000,000 horsepower if fish were not considered, but only about 1,500,000 horsepower when fish migration is considered.

DIKES NEEDED

In making the report, the Fraser River board members stressed the need for immediate restoration of the lower Fraser Valley dikes to the standards adopted by the Fraser Valley diking board following the disastrous 1948 flood.

The report was released jointly by provincial Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston and federal Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton and was the result of two years of studies and surveys coupled with all available information gathered over the years.

MEETING SOON

Mr. Williston said he would meet Resources Minister Hamilton in Ottawa before Jan. 31 to decide what action will be taken on the report.

Mr. Williston said public power would likely develop the Fraser and that it could be a joint project by federal and provincial authorities.

MORE STUDY

Some work could start within a year, but the report recommends three more years of intensive investigation.

The board recommended that a program of site investigations be immediateley initiated to establish the physical feasibility of various projects.

Three different multi-purpose developments were outlined, but the one which received major consideration included provision for 11 dams.

DAM DETAILS

They were:

1. A 450-foot rock fill dam on the lower McGregor River to store 4,000,000 acre-feet of water. It would cost $77,000,000 and produce 430,000 horsepower of hydro power. There is a minor run of spring

Crew Sought

Island Jet Explodes

COURTENAY — The RCAF were searching at midnight for the pilot and navigator of a CF-100 aircraft which "exploded" in midair between here and Campbell River.

Discovery of part of the cockpit of the jet fighter plane near Black Creek, 15 miles north of here, led to belief the pilot and navigator were ejected safely from the plane.

SAW PARACHUTES

Fishermen said they saw them floating down by parachute but lost sight of them in the dark.

Residents in the area reported hearing an explosion in the air late yesterday and the search was organizer when the crew radioed the RCAF Station, Comox, they were bailing out of the aircraft. Major part of the wreckage of the craft was not immediately located.

Names of the two men were not disclosed.

HAD TO JUMP

The CF-100 was believed to have been returning from a routine patrol when the crew was forced to abandon. Details of the crash were meagre.

Air-Sea Rescue at Courtenay joined with RCAF personnel at Comox in the search for the two airmen and the wrecked aircraft.

Two large tugs and numerous fishing vessels scoured the area for the pilot and navigator. Fishermen who spotted them floating down lost sight of them as they drifted out into the strait.

Death Toll: 98

Doors Slammed on Looters Trap Shoppers in Flames

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI)—Fire broke out in a downtown department store crowded with Christmas shoppers last night. Shortly afterward the building's doors were closed—apparently to prevent looting—and officials said 98 persons trapped in the smoke and flames were killed.

Most of the dead were women and children. It was announced officially that 83 women, 8 children and 7 men were killed.

About 200 persons were injured. Doctors said they probably would be unable to save the lives of 50 survivors who were unconscious in the Juan de Dios hospital late last night.

A high fire department official said that a short circuit in the colored lights ornamenting a large manger on the street floor had started the blaze. Paper and straw in the manger caught fire and the flames spread quickly to other parts of the store.

Earlier it had been believed that an exploding heater in the store's restaurant had started the fire.

Survivors said many of the victims were trapped on the street floor and raced to the rear of the store to escape flames after the doors were shut.

The blue aprons of store employees were still wrapped about some of the victims who were trampled to death or suffocated in the dense smoke that filled the store.

A number of men and women fled to the second and third floors and hacked their way to neighboring roofs. Some used tools from the hardware department to break through the rear wall of the second floor. Several broke arms and legs when they jumped to the street.

Drug Offers New Hope

REGINA (UPI)—New hope for alcoholics and sufferers of mental illness has arisen from studies carried out in Regina and Saskatoon, it was learned yesterday.

Army Shot In Neck

BONN, West Germany (Reuters)—Two former concentration camp guards described to a court here Tuesday how 10,800 Russian prisoners were shot in the neck during the war to the strains of martial music.

Former SS guards Gustav Sorge and Wilhelm Schubert are charged with being jointly or individually responsible for the murder of more than 11,000 concentration camp inmates and prisoners of war in Sachsenhausen and Esterwegen concentration camps. They have been on trial since Oct. 13.

Both claim the shootings were ordered personally by Hitler as retaliation for the alleged shooting of German prisoners of war by the Russians.

Red Bomber Twice Speed Of U.S. Best

The new Soviet delta-wing bomber can travel about 1,400 miles an hour.

Winds Aid Balloon

SANTA CRUZ TENERIFE, Canary Islands (UPI)—Favorable winds have carried the drifting balloon "The Small World" and its crew of four past the 1,300-mile mark on its adventurous crossing of the Atlantic, weather experts said.

Carollers Stroll Through City Tonight for Needy

Christmas carols will be working for The Daily Colonist 500 Fund tonight when six couples set the scene for the holiday season with carol singing along residential streets.

The group is led by Mrs. E. C. McMorris, 308 Uganda. All money donated by listeners will go to the fund.

(See other 500 Fund stories on pages 5 and 15.)

There's not much time left to send contributions along to help make Christmas merry for Greater Victoria's 500 neediest families. Donations must be mailed by Friday at midnight.

Donations brought into the Broad Street office of the Colonist on Saturday also will make it on time.

Yesterday the total stood at $6,691.20, approximately $13 with which each of the 500 families can buy the little things they need to make the great Christian festival memorable.

Thirteen may be an unlucky number for some, but it is full of promise for the needy families this Christmas. And indications are that the final figure will be much higher.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

The North American teen-ager lives in a separate realm, neither adult nor child. In former times, a young human between 12 and 20 belonged to a family, and was subject to adult social discipline.

Since the [illegible] ever teen-agers have declared their independence and formed a republic of their own.

"The American teen-ager has been on the scene for only about 15 years," Dwight Macdonald pointed out in a recent article for the New York magazine.

"We have always had pubescents and adolescents . . . Adolescents are those in transit from puberty to maturity, a journey that is much longer than most people realize . . . But now we have something quite different; namely, teen-agers—not just children growing into adults but a sharply differentiated part of the population.

"Naturally, they are a special-interest group, like the farm bloc or organized labor. Psychologically, they are as baffling to the adult as if they were in the grip of a severe neurosis. Sociologically, they form a sub-culture, like the Pueblo Indians."

Accepted Control

"When Tom Sawyer and Penrod became 13, they did not become teen-agers but remained children, who accepted the control of grownups as something they could no more escape than the weather . . ."

Willie Baxter, in Booth Tarkington's "Seventeen," tried to persuade himself and others that he was a grown man. Henry Aldrich of the radio serial and Mickey Rooney as Andy Hardy of the movies were troublesome but respectful sons.

Now, teen-agers live in a world of their own. "Clothes and food and drink and typewriters are designed for them, magazines are edited for them special kinds of non-music are created for them, thousands of their elders spend their professional lives studying them . . ."

Why the change? Dwight Macdonald lists these reasons: 1. Many parents are away from home. It began in the war; afterwards, many mothers kept working. Now, many moonlighting fathers and mothers are constantly away. 2. John Dewey's ideas and Freudian psychology have loosened home and school discipline; allowed children more "self-expression."

3. In the United States, particularly, children of immigrants tried hard to Americanize themselves, and therefore they rejected their parents as authorities and examples. "Father never knew best."

Teen-Ager Concept

The concept of the teen-ager hardly exists in Europe, Macdonald pointed out.

In 1958, the 17,000,000 teen-agers of the United States will spend some $9,500,000,000, one-third of it their own earnings, two-thirds from parents' allowances.

It was not Dwight Macdonald's purpose to fulminate against the growing power of the teen-ager. He was telling the story of one Eugene Gilbert, who had made a fortune by setting up an organization to survey the tastes and opinions of young people for the benefit of merchants and manufacturers who want to sell to the teen-age market.

But the picture of the "new caste" of teen-agers that emerges from Macdonald's pages is one of dismal conformity, ignorance, and freedom without responsibility.

How long will the teen-age cult continue to flourish? It will flourish (I suppose) just as long as fathers continue to hand out large allowances to their children without expecting any work from them in return; as long as mothers buy their daughters expensive clothes but make last year's dresses do for themselves; and as long as merchants and movie-makers encourage teen-agers to rebel against authority.

Fraser Plan: $521,000,000

salmon in the McGregor River and there will be further study on the fish problem. It would be a combined flood control and power project.

SALMON PROBLEM

2. A 130-foot earth fill dam at Eaglet Lake on the main stem of the Fraser River above Prince George, about 20 miles below the McGregor damsite. This would store 2,860,000 acre-feet of water, produce 175,000 horsepower, and cost $142,000,000. It is also a combined flood control and power project. There is a minor spring salmon problem here and a fairly stable sockeye run into Bowron Creek, but fisheries officials feel they can handle it with known facilities.

DEEPER LAKE

3. A 30-foot-high concrete dam at outlet of Stuart Lake which will flood the lake by 22 feet. This is a flood control plan and would cost $5,000,000.

The sockeye run is a major problem here, not only for passage above the dam but also in the flooding of spawning grounds. It is thought likely that this project would not be undertaken, but approximately the same expenditure would repair and strengthen the existing diking system on the lower Fraser to meet the slightly higher flow that would result if Stuart Lake is not dammed.

STORAGE DAM

4. A 60-foot rock fill storage dam on Isaac Lake to store 708,000 acre-feet for use in downstream power plants and for flood control. It would cost $4,000,000 and present no fish problem.

5. An 80-foot earth fill dam at Sandy Lake on the north fork of Quesnel Lake to store 400,000 acre-feet and to cost a little more than $5,000,000. It is for flood control and downstream power benefits. There is no fish problem.

POWER DAM

6. A 300-foot rock fill dam at Cariboo Falls on Quesnel River to provide 537,000 acre-feet of water storage and produce 115,000 horsepower, using water storage from Sandy and Isaac Lakes. It is a $21,000,000 project and there is no fish problem.

7. A 200-foot rock fill dam on Hobson Lake to provide 811,000 acre-feet of water storage and provide 115,000 horsepower. It would cost $27,000,000 and present no fish problem.

8. A 325-foot rock fill dam below Clearwater Lake to create 1,800,000 acre-feet of storage and produce 130,000 horsepower. It would cost $39,000,000. There is a spring salmon problem.

9. A 500-foot rock fill dam at Hemp Creek to create 1,130,000 acre-feet of storage and produce 525,000 horsepower. It would cost $87,000,000. There is a spring salmon run on the Hemp, but fisheries officials believe it can be taken care of, possibly by trucking the salmon a short distance above the dam.

10. A 120-foot rock fill dam on the Clearwater to provide 145,000 horsepower and to cost $26,000,000.

11. Another 130-foot rock fill on the Clearwater to produce 150,000 horsepower and cost $22,000,000.

The other two suggested plans would include deletion of the Eaglet Lake dam and construction of dams on the Quesnel River and near the source of the Fraser in Raush Valley.

LARGE AREA

The Fraser River system covers about 90,000 square miles and drains an area larger than Great Britain.

The whole plan would create some 130,000,000 acre-feet of water storage which could be regulated during peak flood periods. Added to the cost of construction of dams and power plants would be the cost of transmission lines.

The potential value of power produced would be in the order of $300,000,000 a year at wholesale rates or $800,000,000 at retail rates.

The Fraser River board was established by the federal and provincial governments in May, 1955, and its members are T. M. Patterson, chairman, director of the water resources branch, federal department of northern affairs and national resources; A. F. Paget, provincial comptroller of water rights; A. J. Whitmore, federal director of fisheries, Pacific area; and G. S. Andrews, provincial surveyor-general.

WARNING SERVICE

The board also recommended establishment of a flood forecasting and warning service; further research into problems relating to fisheries, erosion and silting; examination of the problem of winter flooding behind the lower Fraser Valley dikes and of the use of lands within the flood plains; and study of possible future water diversions from adjacent drainage basins and electrical interconnections of Fraser River power developments with other systems.

Canadians Complete Big Magnetic Survey

OTAWA (CP)—A Canadian scientific team has returned to Ottawa after completing the first large-scale magnetic survey of the Pacific Ocean in 30 years.

The 42,000-mile airborne survey, conducted by the technical survey department's Dominion Observatory, ranged north to the Aleutian Ilands, west to the Philippines and south to New Zealand.

Dr. Paul Serson of the observatory's geomagnetism laboratory here, said in an interview Monday that results of the survey will permit major navigation charts of the Pacific area.

The survey was made with a half-ton Canadian magnetometer mounted in a B-17 Flying Fortress chartered by the observatory from Kenting Aviation of Toronto. The plane carried four scientists and a crew of five.

The magnetometer measures the strength and direction of the earth's constantly changing magnetic fields. This information is required in preparation of navigation charts.

French wine set bearing the date 1588 is admired by Albert and Betty Ware and perhaps Joey (perched on Mrs. Ware's shoulder) as part of $30,000 shipment of antiques is unpacked at Wares' home on Cedar Hill Road. —(Colonist photo.)

Biggest Single Antique Shipment?

$30,000 in Those Cases

To passers-by, it may have looked yesterday as if the Wares were just moving furniture from a back shed into their new home on Cedar Hill Road.

But a closer look would have shown that the back shed was a tightly-filled packing case, and that the furniture was not the kind generally described as "household effects."

Inside that "shed" and three others one even bigger, one the same size and one smaller —were antiques valued at $30,000, newly arrived from England.

The Wares, Albert and Betty, thought the shipment was probably the largest ever received at one time in Victoria. It was too large to be unloaded at their shop at Fort, so they unpacked it at home.

The antiques were selected by Mrs. Ware last summer from stocks collected by Mr. Ware's four brothers in London, from all over the United Kingdom and France. (Like Mr. Ware, a master cabinetmaker, the four older brothers were all brought up in the antique business.)

Some of the antiques soon may grace Victoria homes, but Mr. Ware said many of them undoubtedly will be bought by visitors from the United States, and will travel for hundreds or thousands of miles again.

Gun Salute at Funeral Ignites Tragic Battle

Lebanese Villagers Massacred

ARSAL, Lebanon (UPI) — Lebanese troops and jet planes pounded this village with mor[illegible] the weekend in one of the bloodiest battles Lebanon has witnessed in eight months. It was all the result of a tragic misunderstanding.

Village elders said 40 persons were killed and more than 100 wounded in an eight-hour battle with army units encircling this rebel stronghold in the Bekaa Valley.

They said jet fighters made five runs on the village, firing machine-guns and rockets armed cars also took part in the attack.

The shooting began when rival villagers of Nabi Osman, across the valley, fired into the air during a funeral. Arsal inhabitants, thinking the fire was directed at them, opened fire themselves.

Five policemen tried to intervene but were caught in the cross-fire. One was killed and two wounded. The others called for troops who have been keeping a close watch on the area since last summer's rebellion.

Arsal residents opened fire on the troops, and the military men decided to teach the village a lesson. The army called in armored and air reinforcements to disengage infantry units that had been pinned down.

The villagers of Nabi Osman, meanwhile, had withdrawn from the conflict, leaving their village deserted.

The road into the city was studded with dead sheep, cows and donkeys killed in the wild exchange of gunfire. Arsal is about 50 miles north of Beirut, on an isolated strip of the Syrian-Lebanese frontier.

Details of the fighting were not released in Beirut until yesterday. An official government statement claimed only 15 persons were killed.

Villagers appeared dazed and stunned by the damage and violence. They waved shell fragments and parts of mortar shells and pointed out gaping holes smashed in roofs and walls of buildings.

Sockeye in 1959 Down to Trickle?

★ ★ ★

Ocean Cools Again

BELLINGHAM (AP) — A sharp drop in both sockeye and pink salmon runs next year was forecast Tuesday by the director of the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission.

Lloyd Royal of New Westminster told a commission meeting attended by 200 fishermen here that the American and Canadian fishing fleets may only take about 1,000,000 Sockeye each in 1959.

The two fleets combined brought in a record 5,500,000 Sockeye in the 1958 season from runs headed for the Fraser River.

Royal said the pink salmon catch may be even smaller than the 1943 low of only 1,000,000 fish.

Royal said he hopes, however, that "if we can hold the fort on both the early and late pink runs" next summer they may be built up in succeeding years on new spawning grounds which have become available.

BELLINGHAM (AP)—The shift in ocean currents which cost American fishermen a share in 4,250,000 Sockeye salmon last summer is breaking up, oceanographers reported here Tuesday.

Clint Atkinson of the fish and wildlife service at Seattle, and Dr. J. P. Tully, Nanaimo oceanographer, said unusual warming of the ocean last summer caused Fraser River salmon to seek a colder northern route to the spawning grounds.

Winds Fan Blaze

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif. (UPI) — Rising winds posed a new threat today to hopes of controlling a 50,000-acre blaze which has destroyed 19 homes and ranch buildings in a three-county rampage.

The forecast for increased winds overnight meant trouble for 2,000 men battling to stop the march of the giant blaze. Flames still licked through by brush and scrub timber, two miles from Trabuco canyon, but there apparently was no immediate danger to the home-dotted area. However, strong winds could drive the flames toward Upper Trabuco Canyon, where there are about 50 homes.

Investigators believe tracer bullets in army exercises caused the fire.

Licence Lost, $25 Fine For Gaglardi

A fine of $25, and a three-month suspension of his driver's licence, was handed down to Highways Minister W. A. Gaglardi in provincial police court here yesterday.

Appearing before Magistrate J. I. Thomas, the minister was charged with exceeding a 40-mile-an-hour speed limit two weeks ago near Richmond, on the mainland. Proceedings were transferred to the court in Victoria.

Mr. Gaglardi has been fined twice before for speeding.

B.C. Doctors' Case

Optical Firm Sale 'Back Door' Device

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sale of a Vancouver optical company by a group of Victoria and Vancouver eye specialists was a "device to get money into their hands through the back door," a lawyer charged in B.C. Supreme Court Tuesday.

T. G. Norris accused 14 specialists, suspended by the B.C. College of Physicians and Surgeons for unprofessional conduct, of trying to shelter behind the B.C. Medical Act to "sanctify" their unethical acts.

Eleven doctors are appealing the college's finding and are asking that the three-month suspension be lifted. The suspension has been deferred until Feb. 1, pending outcome of the appeal.

The doctors claim they sold their shares in Prescription Optical Company for $320,000 when a commission arrangement they had in referring prescriptions to the company was outlawed by the B.C. Medical Act in 1946.

Minority Representation

VERY few people in British Columbia who followed the course of the Rossland-Trail by-election can have been surprised at the return of the Social Credit candidate, Mr. Donald Brothers. With the opposition vote split three ways, the election of the government candidate was all but conceded prior to the poll. What did come as a surprise was the fact that the Social Credit party, with the odds so much in its favor, came within such a slender margin of losing the seat.

In the circumstances Premier Bennett's display of jubilation will impress no one who makes a simple analysis of the voting. Far from voting confidence in the Social Credit government, the Rossland-Trail electorate has delivered a harsh rebuke despite the blitz tactics of the government, which arraigned all the force it could muster against an opposition pulling in three different directions. There can be no other interpretation of the feeling of the riding when it is observed that while 3,129 voted for the election of the government candidate, 7,267 voted for the other three.

Taken at its own value, the result of Monday's voting is glaringly revealed of the mood of the Rossland-Trail people. But there is something else even more so. In two years Social Credit has lost almost 2,000 supporters there. Mr. Robert Sommers, whose resignation brought on the by-election, polled 5,097 votes in 1956 for a clear majority—also over three opposition candidates. Mr. Brothers with all the cards stacked in his favor secured a meagre 3,129 for a paradoxical "victory" in which 70 per cent of the vote was against him.

The only other significant feature of the election was the remarkable gain in strength of the Progressive Conservatives, for whose nominee the increase in popular support was almost tenfold. Though running last in the field of four, the PC candidate was less than 1,000 votes behind the winner, in a total of 10,396 ballots cast.

If the by-election is to be taken as a straw in the wind, Mr. Bennett should be feeling a cold draft on the back of his neck. This is the result which he describes as the finest Christmas present the people could give the government. The premier says the electors have spoken clearly. They have indeed—with a voice which should cause the government dismay, rather than jubilation.

A Good Plane But No Takers

THE government is having second thoughts about the Avro Arrow plane. It had tentatively decided to stop production on this supersonic fighter because of the cost and the transition of opinion towards missile defence, but the final decision will come March 1. Several factors have intervened to blunt abandonment of the Avro; the opinion of Air Marshal Slemon, the possibility of selling the plane to some of the NATO allies, and the dispersal of trained scientific teams that would follow an end to the Avro program.

Defence Minister Pearkes has had the embarrassing job of hawking the Arrow round the NATO group, but has found no takers. It is apparent that allied co-operation balks when it comes to sharing the production of weapons. Most NATO nations of course have their own worries about weapons production, but common defence does not reach the sensible state of a common pool. The result of Mr. Pearkes' sales talks has been disappointing, although through no fault of his.

The irony is particularly to be noted in relation to U.S. production programs. When Air Marshal Slemon gave his considered opinion as deputy NORAD commander that the Arrow was the best fighter plane in existence or in prospect, and that it was vitaly needed in spite of all the missile talk, he did so in the presence of his NORAD chief, the U.S. General Partridge. The latter therefore tacitly supported the air marshal. This has not weighed an iota with Washington, which also let down Mr. Pearkes' highest hopes. For prestige reasons America is always reluctant to adopt other than its own weapons, and no doubt this as usual proved a determining factor. Even more so than under NATO, however, does a sharing program seem desirable under NORAD, which links Canada and the United States in the closest of defence partnerships.

The federal government is thus put in a dilemma it must resolve by March 1. If it decides to go it alone with the Avro aircraft it means a heavy bill of costs for the taxpayer, and probably a cut-back in other defence measures to offset this one project. The government is not helped to its decision, either, by the conflicting views of its senior military men, present and past.

Federal Reverse

THE Diefenbaker administration had slightly the worse of the two federal by-elections held this week. Progressive Conservatives retained the Springfield seat in Manitoba with a slightly reduced majority, but dropped Toronto Trinity in Ontario to a Liberal, Mr. Paul Hellyer, who briefly held associate ministerial rank in the former St. Laurent regime. In both constituencies it was the Progressive Conservatives and the Liberals who were attracting the votes, while other parties failed to place. The net result is a one-seat reduction in the PC benches in the present House of Commons, where the government commands 208 seats, the Liberals 49 and the CCF 8, as on March 31 last.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker made a pertinent comment on the result. He said: "By-elections are by-elections"; implying that decisions in local areas do not often predict the course of any party's fortunes. Mr. Lester B. Pearson may be reading too much into the Liberal win in Toronto Trinity if he bases on that the prospect of Liberal return to power at Ottawa. What seems more probable is that the light vote in both ridings reflects the mood of the electors in response to current economic conditions and the times. There may be a warning in that for the federal administration, perhaps, but no indication yet that the nation would not do again tomorrow what it did at the general election.

Since the general poll of last spring there have been four by-elections. In these the government retained seats in Ontario and Manitoba; lost a seat to the Liberals in Quebec; and split the decision on the last occasion, dropping one seat in Ontario, for unchanged initial standing in the House of Commons. As the prime minister has observed by-elections are by-elections, and rarely weather vanes measuring the force of future political winds.

Interpreting the News

Communes for All in China

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MAO Tse-tung, a man of ruthless will and amiable countenance, has led Red China to the peak of its military, political and economic power.

It is hardly surprising therefore, that government leaders around the world are closely studying unofficial reports from China that Mao may step down as chairman.

Such reports have cropped up before and turned out to be wrong. But diplomatic experts say it may well be possible that Mao, who is 65, is planning to devote more time to the preparation of a theoretical work to explain Red China's vast programs.

Mao, in this view, would retain his rank and party prestige as the leader of 600,000,000 people in the grip of a sterner regime than that of Russia.

It is pointed out that Mao, while a soldier and man of action, is also an intellectual, a poet, a prolific writer.

This man of paradox, while exuding rustic simplicity, wields more power than any Chinese emperor ever did and is driving his people into a barracks-type existence.

Western statesmen have frequently expressed doubt as to whether Mao will be able to make his new commune system work indefinitely, attacking as it does the ancient family traditions and character of the Chinese.

In Red China's "great leap forward," millions of people are being herded into communes; steel furnaces are being erected in backyards; and peasants are marched to the fields, like soldiers to a parade ground.

Josef Stalin tried a similar system in Russia after the revolution — an attempt to fuse collective farms into all-embracing communes—but was forced to give it up by implacable opposition from the peasants.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

A SIDNEY reader thinks it regrettable, as he puts it, that I should be allowed in this space to "preach against 'The Queen' and Canada's flag, the Union Jack."

Dear goodness, and me a royalist whose backbone still quivers when "The Queen" is played on appropriate occasions.

I have written at times about the anthems and flags of this country, certainly, but not against either. I have too much respect for them all. I suggest to my Sidney correspondent that he re-read what he complains about, keeping his blood pressure low when he does so.

My reader says: "When I came from England in 1911 there was no question that the Union Jack was our flag and 'God Save the King' our anthem." Of course there wasn't because Canada at that time remained very much a British colony. A lot has happened since then and Canada is now, legally and constitutionally, an independent nation with the same claim to symbols of its sovereignty as any other nation.

Diehards of British blood don't like this development but facts are not to be dismissed because they are unpalatable to them.

I myself am of British birth and blood, but I consider that Canadians have the same rights of evolution that Britons had.

"God Save the King" did not spring fully armed and recognized as a national anthem when it was originated. In the beginning it was a political song, coined to boost one king's party against another king's party. It took a long time to be adopted as a national song. A similar evolution is in progress with "O Canada," which is gradually reaching the status of a national song. Surely the growth of Canadian sentiment in Canada is as valid as was the growth of British sentiment in Britain?

* * *

I am aware that some people in Canada of British birth find this hard to accept, but their hearts should tell them where fair play lies. If we live here we should give our prior allegiance to the land we live in.

There need be no conflict, in any case, between "The Queen" and "O Canada." There is ample room for both, as I have suggested more than once even if my Sidney reader seems unaware of it. "The Queen" is as applicable as "O Canada," because this is a country with a queen and that anthem gives recognition to this circumstance. All that is required is sensible appreciation of when to play either or both.

The flag question is more difficult to harmonize, but here again my correspondent overlooks a development because he doesn't like it. For all official purposes the Canadian Red Ensign is the flag of Canada; it was so designated by federal order-in-council in 1945. The red ensign was not proclaimed specifically as a national flag, but as with "O Canada" usage is making it one. The question of a distinctive separate flag altogether is not germane to today's discussion.

My correspondent says further that in 1914 Canadian troops sang with gusto "God save the flag, God Save the King." Naturally, for most of them were British-born and Canada was still a British appendage with these emblems a dominant characteristic. Time changes things, however. In the last war Canadian troops were mostly native-born. Canada had become autonomous and independent, and the troops preferred symbols that would identify them and their country.

Is there something wrong with this development? Is it unnatural that Canadians should want to express their own national sentiments?

A Young and Thriving Land . . .

Britain's Part in World Progress

By SIR MILES THOMAS

IN my travels from Britain to various parts of the world, I find myself coming across a strange anomaly these days. The talk very often is about developments in science and technology, and one hears of the progress and increased production in many countries. Rarely, however, even in Britain herself, does one hear talk of British achievements.

The anomaly is that so often this talk of other people's achievements takes place in surroundings which are themselves fine examples of British achievement.

Admittedly, other countries produce many fine aircraft in this age of high-speed aviation, but it is Britain's Comet IV that leads the jet race across the Atlantic: it is Britain's Britannia that breaks all records for turbo-prop airliners. In many parts of the world it is British engines—such as Rolls Royce and Bristol—that are so often used to power the aircraft that are built.

Even in the field of interspace experiments no one would get very far if their satellites and rockets could not be tracked so successfully by Britain's giant radio telescope at Jodrell Bank.

* * *

Britain today is in the foreground of civilization's advance. She knows that she cannot afford to rest on the honor of her achievements of the past century: today she knows that she must lead the way in what is going to be the atomic age of great expansion and she is leading it.

This small island is showing the world how to harness nuclear fission for peaceful purposes for the advantage of all men. Britain is the first nation to build a full-scale nuclear power station supplying electricity for normal industrial and domestic purposes. And this despite the fact that she had to begin her research in nuclear fission all over again after the Second World War. Now she has overtaken all her rivals.

The first power station at Calder Hall, on the northwest coast of England, supplied to the national grid 438,797,000 units of electricity between April, 1957, and March, 1958, produced by two reactors. A third reactor went into operation in March, 1958, and a fourth was then nearing completion.

Other nuclear power stations are already being built in various parts of the country. By 1966 they will be supplying Britain with one-quarter of her electricity needs, and at a cheaper cost than the conventional plants.

* * *

In addition, experiments go on with ZETA, the apparatus for harnessing the power of the hydrogen bomb. Other countries are working on similar projects, but it is in Britain that the greatest success is being achieved. Altogether more than £300,000,000 is spent in Britain annually on research and development in science and technology.

I could provide a long list of British achievements. After all, it was Britain who gave the world penicillin; she invented radar and television, the jet engine and the turbo-prop airliner.

Indeed, this record of achievement—through hard work—over the years since the Second World War is an amazing one if we only stop to think about it. Moreover, Britain has been the first to bring to the world the benefits of what she has done.

British investments abroad each year total £200,000,00; and 70 per cent of the outside capital which has gone to the Commonwealth countries since the Second World War has come from the United Kingdom. The government alone has made £156,000,000 available for development projects overseas. And let us not forget that sterling is still the currency that finances nearly half of the world's trade and payments.

* * *

At home, British industry—especially the new industries of the century— gathers more strength each year. The electronics industry has, since the Second World War, increased fivefold, and is now the second largest in the world. Its 1957 production amounted to some £300,000,000.

The plastic industry has grown from practically nothing just before the war to be one of the great exporting businesses. Last year its output was 400,000 tons, of which more than 25 per cent was sold in countries overseas.

In addition to what may appear the purely economic aspects of achievement, Britain grows stronger in many ways. Only a few weeks ago a British racing car driver, Mike Hawthorn, became world grand prix champion and a British car, the Vanwell, won the grand prix car championship.

It was a British expedition that crossed the Antarctic, and it was a British expedition that climbed Mount Everest—more than five years ago now. Nobody else has done it yet!

All of these are not accidents of time. They are the successes of dedicated men working to achieve results.

Obviously, there is no lack of courage in Britain today, and no lack of drive. She is a young and thriving land.

Careless Driving

Gap Left in the Law

(From The Toronto Telegram)

THE ruling of Chief Justice McRuer that the careless driving section of the Ontario Highway Traffic Act is invalid attracts widespread public attention. This is because it bears on public concern about the highway toll and the concerted efforts of the authorities to make the highways safe by regulation and deterrent action.

Chief Justice McRuer has ruled that the provincial legislation encroaches upon the sections of the Criminal Code which deal with criminal negligence, and is therefore beyond the province's powers. "A summarization of the development of criminal law," he wrote, "would indicate that the provincial legislature has been making an attempt to amplify and round out the matter of criminal negligence as applied to the operation of vehicles."

The decision is being appealed by the Ontario attorney-general. If it is upheld, it will leave a gap in the law with respect to punishment of drivers guilty of some degree of negligence short of the degree required to convict on the serious charge of criminal negligence. It will not mean such offenders go scot-free, for careless driving involves a specific offence, such as speeding, going through a stop sign or failing to yield the right of way.

Attorney-General Kelso Roberts has pointed out that careless driving was formerly covered by the Criminal Code. There were then three degrees of negligence as applied to driving: manslaughter, which involved a high degree of negligence; dangerous driving, which the courts held to involve a lesser degree of negligence; and careless driving, which the courts regarded as involving a lesser degree of negligence than the other two.

Under the new Criminal Code, drawn up in 1953 and 1954, there is only one degree of negligence — criminal negligence. Causing death by criminal negligence is subject to maximum sentence of life imprisonment; causing bodily injury by criminal negligence is subject to maximum sentence of 10 years; a conviction on charge of criminal negligence is punishable by up to five years. A person is guilty of criminal negligence if he shows "wanton or reckless disregard" for the lives or safety of other persons.

No doubt many persons charged with careless driving under the Highway Traffic Act could be charged with "criminal negligence." In practice, it is more difficult to get convictions on a serious charge than on a lesser one.

An example in the Criminal Code is the charge of drunken driving and the lesser charge of impaired driving. If the charge of careless driving breaks down, as it is provided in provincial law, Parliament may have to amend the Criminal Code to provide for such an offence, short of criminal negligence.

The Packsack

of GREGORY CLARK

FOR every rebel you bury in the ground, twenty rebels are thereby seeded, sprout, burgeon and grow strong. This is a saying as old as human thought, and has been said in every language, ancient and modern. Yet somehow there are men in every generation who rise to power who never heard of it, and go right on shooting and burying rebels. What is the matter with them? Don't they read? Are they uninformed? How can we safeguard ourselves against influential fatheads rising to govern us?

Now and again we are encouraged to think that by killing those who oppose us we gain our ends. For example, the Redman, mistakenly called the North American Indian, got in our way in the early days of the exploration and exploitation of this continent. With our superior equipment and technologies, we got rid of him, with massacres, rum, deceit, preposterous treaties, until at last we got him walled off in reservations or, to be rude, in concentration camps of the larger size. In other parts of the world, as with the Bushman in Australia, we had some success in brushing aside aboriginal breeds of men who were not the right color or of the proper social standing. It is not yet clear whether this was our intention in Africa, India, the Philippines, the Indies and other areas of this troubled world.

But these were not rebels we destroyed. These were helpless people.

If a man is not helpless, and is a rebel, let us remember how risky it is to bury him. Of all the seed on earth, he is the most potent.

Hollow Plea

IT has been the experience of most newspaper reporters covering the courts to hear the pleas of "respectable homes" and "good character" in order to win the freedom or lighten the sentence on a young hoodlum.

The plea of youth and innocence had some effect before gang warfare leading to murder became newspaper "copy."

If youth is going to commit criminal acts then youth must accept its punishment.

—SUDBURY STAR.

Letters to the Editor

Naive Overture

What could be more naive than Reeve Chatterton's suggestion that a metropolitan council might be acceptable to Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt note he does not mention Victoria).

Fast thinking for one who could not make up his mind for or against amalgamation until the eleventh hour before the electors went to the polls.

Now the reeve suggests that through a metropolitan council it would be possible to have some say in amongst other things, all parks in Greater Victoria.

What will Saanich throw into the pot to equal Beacon Hill Park? About as much as was contributed when the Greater Victoria Water Board was formed in 1945. Victoria owned and controlled the whole of the water supply at that time and, for the good of the whole area, disposed of its assets to the water board. Saanich, as far as I know, contributed nothing.

To quote Reeve Chatterton, "The metropolitan council would only deal with problems essential to the welfare and benefit of Greater Victoria."

Come out from behind that haystack, George. In my book, all problems of Victoria and Saanich are common problems and I don't think Victorians would be willing to relinquish any more assets to outside participation.

Unclaimed Medals

It is with a tinge of remorse that I read in the Colonist of the difficulties that confront the veterans' affairs department in not being able to locate the owners of approximate 1,000,000 medals due to moving, etc.

In the CP despatch, it states that some 290,000 medals are unclaimed in New Zealand due to the fact that the veterans there claim they should not have to apply to anyone to receive something that is already theirs. They also state the medals have little personal value to them because names are not engraved on same. This I heartily agree with.

For further enlightement, Canada did not send the recipients their medals automatically, as stated in the despatch; here also the veteran had to apply for them. Canadian medals also were not engraved and consequently can be bought in, I would venture to say, any second-hand store in any Canadian city.

As for DVA officials stating they have had no complaints re engraving, etc., may I suggest a glimpse into their files for 1945-46-47.

Therefore, could it be that the Canadian government has 1,000,000 medals on hand for the same reason New Zealand has 260,000 of them?

Their Very Own Jet

RCAF officers at Ontario's Mount Hope base were astounded when air cadets unveiled their own CF-100 jet engine. Boys passed the hat for $125 nominal price asked by Crown Assets and then assembled it themselves. Pleased air force may now include jet engine instruction for the first time in cadet training.

Colonist 500 Fund — Eases Season of Despair

Life 'Struggle to Hold On'

The woman's eyes had a sad, tired look. Her face was deeply lined, the heritage of many an anxious year.

"Life," she said, "is like living on the edge of a steep cliff.

"A struggle to hold on—that's all life is," she said, and her words seemed weighted with despair.

LEFT PENNILESS

Years ago her husband died. She was left penniless, to bring up a family of one girl and four boys. She faced adversity with courage and determination. She is winning out, but, as she explained, hers is a never-ending struggle.

She can't give her children the type of home she would like them to have, but they do have all the love any mother could be expected to give.

But lately the odds against this mother always seem to climb as Christmas rolls around.

HAPPY PAST

She thinks of how easy it was to be happy at this time in other years and then of the beginning of her struggle and how different Christmas was in the succeeding years that she has had to face alone.

This year, though, it won't be quite so bad.

The generosity of others more fortunate is being extended to her through The Daily Colonist's 500 Christmas Fund.

SHARE MONEY

This woman's family, and 500 others like it selected by welfare experts as being most worthy of receiving help, will share the money in the fund.

Each family will receive cash to buy "the little extras" that make Christmas warm and happy . . . the things that a widow, alone and penniless, could never afford to buy for five children.

Donations to the fund should be sent or taken to the Colonist's main office at 2631 Douglas, or the downtown office at 1215 Broad, before the end of this week.

Canada Leads

PARIS (Reuters) — Canada played a prominent part in getting the NATO alliance Tuesday to declare its readiness to negotiate with Moscow over Germany in addition to rejecting the Soviet Berlin proposals.

Canada was a member of the six-power drafting committee which hammered out a declaration on the extent to which the West should offer to negotiate.

External Affairs Minister Smith wanted something more than a reiteration of Sunday's statement of the United States, France, Britain and West Germany rejecting the Soviet proposals for a Western withdrawal from a demilitarized free city of West Berlin.

Christmas Warning from Fire Chiefs:

Tree Can Become a Torch

The Christmas tree, centre festivities in the coming weeks, may also be a trap. Fire departments of Greater Victoria are anxious that no fire-caused tragedies mar the season.

"Christmas is a time of happiness and good cheer," said Victoria's Fire Chief James Bayliss yesterday.

"Your fire departments are anxious that your happiness is not spoiled by the things that help to make the celebration, such as your Christmas tree and decorations.

"These things may hold a great threat to your home, your family and friends."

To overcome this threat Chief Bayliss, together with Chiefs Gilbert Stancombe of Esquimalt, William Pearson of Oak Bay and Joseph Law of Saanich, endorse the suggestions offered by the Dominion Fire Prevention Association:

Remember that your Christmas tree is very combustible. Filled with pitch and resin, it ignites easily and burns furiously.

Don't choose too big a tree. The smaller one can be just as pretty and is less hazardous.

Be sure to get a tree that is freshly cut.

Don't set the tree up too early, and keep it outdoors until ready to install. Then, set it up in a cool part of the house, away from radiators, heaters and firepaces — and clear of entrances or passageways.

Cut the base of the tree at least an inch above the original cut, and at an angle. Stand the tree in a container of water filled with coal or sand—and keep the container filled with water.

Falling needles are a sign of a drying tree. When this happens, take the tree down and discard it.

For lighting, NEVER use candles on or near the tree. Use lighting sets endorsed by the Underwriters' Laboratories or Canadian Standards Association.

Make sure sockets and wire are in good condition, and discard sets with frayed wire. Very effective, and safest of all, is a colored spotlight focused on the tree.

Be sure light circuits are not overloaded.

Inspect the tree from time to time, and if needles near lights start to turn brown, move the lights. Guards should be used on the bulbs, which get very hot.

Be sure to turn all lights out before retiring, and when going out.

When decorating the tree, avoid cotton, paper or pyroxylin, which ignite easily and burn intensely. Use light decorations that won't burn, such as metal, glass and asbestos.

"With all of this in mind," say the chiefs, "we hope you have a merry, fire-safe Christmas."

The net result was a drop in gains which had ranged to more than 2 points over a broad list.

Many issues ruled strong and none was under severe pressure. Electronics maintained a large part of early gains that had ranged to more than 3 points. Some of the chemicals were higher.

Specials had many strong spots. There were wide gains in the office equipments, specialty steels, some of the oils, and metals. Lorillard ruled strong in the tobaccos. Rails held well although Missouri-Kansas-Texas preferred fell 2 points.

Fruehauf Trailer was in good demand with a gain running to nearly 2 points. Gulf Oil stood out as a top gainer in the international oils. Standard Brands shone in the foods. Eastern Stainless was a favorite in the steels. Sunray Midcontinent at one time showed a gain of 5 points in the domestic oils.

London Stock Prices

B.C. Businessmen Think So

Increased Sales Ahead

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

A poll of leading B.C. commercial, industrial and construction firms has indicated that 1959 will be a year of general improvement.

The survey was made by the provincial department of industrial development, trade and commerce.

It showed that 67 per cent of firms contacted expected increased sales, while 63 per cent of them thought prices would remain constant.

One-third anticipate increasing their number of employees and the rest do not expect any decline in employment from present levels.

Half the firms expect an increase in earnings, although all expressed fears of rising labor and material costs and highly competitive marketing.

Commenting on the survey, Trade Minister Robert Bonner said the tone was more optimistic than a year ago, and that the decline in capital and repair expenditures appears to have levelled off with a quickening of the business tempo.

FOOD STOCKS SOLD

Investment fund operators are not necessarily always correct, but they at least rank as experts of their trade and their activities are usually worthy of some study.

For instance, the All Canadian Fund people during November made a number of changes that might be significant.

They sold their holdings of Dominion Stores (6,975 shares), Simpson's Ltd. (9,600 shares), Weston "A" (1,000 shares) and Weston "B" (6000 shares.)

This represented the bulk of their equity in the retailing and grocery stocks which in the past year have made spectacular gains.

All-Canadian may have felt that this was a good time to get out of these recession defensive stocks, and into others that are more likely to give a response to improved trading.

The stocks they chose to buy included Hudson Bay Mining, Aluminium Ltd., Consolidated Denison, Dominion Foundries and Steel, Ford A., Noranda, Trans Mountain and Western Plywood.

Some of these are among the shares that were worst hit when the markets started to crumble in mid-1957. They have so far enjoyed only a comparatively small rally.

BANK SETS 'FIRST'

The Royal Bank of Canada during 1958 made itself the first Canadian chartered bank to have more than $4,000,000,000 worth of assets.

Annual report of the bank for the year ending Nov. 30 shows a net profit of $15,868,329 ($2.79 a share). This was an increase of 14 per cent on the 1957 net profit of $13,919,550 ($7.76 a share).

Deposits were at a record level of $3,782,068, and $10,000,000 was added to the rest account.

Strike Talks Delayed

TORONTO (CP) — Talks aimed at settling the International Nickel strike at Sudbury, its 84th day, were broken off yesterday as union and company negotiators agreed to meet again Wednesday.

Labor Minister Daley, who summoned the two groups, said the adjournment was made at his request.

'Gentle Copper' Slain

LONDON (UPI)—Policemen enjoy a special status in Britain, where even the underworld deplores violence against a bobby.

So the death of Ray Summers, 23, a "kind and gentle copper," has saddened Londoners' Christmas preparations—for his murder was a crime of special horror in British eyes.

Summers was slain Sunday night when he tried to break up a fight among teen-agers outside a dance hall—stabbed in the back with a stiletto by a youth who fled through the back garden of a house.

A post-mortem which confirmed he was a victim of violence sent 800 fellow officers on a murder hunt through the rough Holloway neighborhood of north London.

Hundreds of amateur detectives joined the police search, many of them residents of the Holloway district where Summers was called "a nice lad, always helping the kids and the old people—a kind, gentle copper."

Summers was to have been married to Sheila MacKenzie, 19, a typist, next month. Yesterday she fought back her tears as she looked at a half-finished woollen sweater. "No one will ever wear it now," she said. "It was to have been his Christmas present."

Intermediate Teams Unite . . .

. . . Three-Year Plan

Pro Football Foreseen in Victoria

By JIM TAYLOR

A group of Victoria men have decided that the city can have a professional Canadian football team in three years.

Of course, there are about a zillion reasons why it probably won't succeed—most of them dollars. But the organization, as yet unnamed, figures to overcome them with hard work and determination.

The professional dream is an offshoot of an amalgamation between the two city intermediate teams, Oak Bay Drakes and Mayo Vampires. First step in the campaign is to put football at the intermediate level on a firm basis, but it is no secret that professional ball is the long-term aim.

As yet the only official is Pete Turko, a Drake end who is general manager and chief spokesman.

Mr. Turko, oozing confidence, outlined the long-term plans last night.

"Our new team will play in an inter-city intermediate league with North Shore and Surrey next year. The following year we bring in a few professionals and try to play off with the ORFU champions to attract a little attention and promote interest. The next year, we turn pro. We're aiming for a spot in the WIFU along with B.C. Lions."

Turko admits there will be problems — things like about $300,000 operating costs, a new stadium, and 16,000 people to put in it each game.

But the organization has made a good start—it plans to open an office. It also has 25 directors, thereby tying a professional football record set by the Lions.

Officers for the new group will be elected at a meeting Jan. 15. At that time, a name for the organization and for the intermediate team will be selected. Turko will welcome all suggestions.

Turko was a glib hand with the figures when finances were mentioned. The organization feels that the government would pay two-thirds of the cost of a civic stadium. Plans are to sell 3,000 memberships at $20 apiece, and 200 corporate memberships at $100 each. Add to that total a minimum of 13,000 season tickets at about $28 apiece, claims Turko, and you have $444,000.

At present, the big problem is to raise $15,000 to keep the intermediate, junior and juvenile leagues going.

Backing up their claim to a chance at a WIFU berth, Turko points out that Winnipeg Blue Bombers are reportedly going into the Big Four Football Union.

"That would five teams in the east and only four in the west. They want five out west to have a 16-game schedule, and Victoria is the logical place. If we can show we're serious, they shouldn't object to letting us in. That's what we're aiming for."

"Having a fifth team so close to Vancouver would cut down the travel expenses of every other club in the WIFU."

It was pointed out that Victoria's entry has competition, called the New Westminster-Burnaby Bears begging for a WIFU franchise. They, too, have an office. But Turko shrugged off the idea.

"They," said Mr. Turko, "are bluffing!"

Move Over, Miss Dietrich

There may be prettier legs around than those of Pat Summerall, but you'd have a hard time convincing New York Giants. Thanks to a 49-yard field goal by Summerall, who wasn't expected to play because of an injured leg, Giants defeated Cleveland Browns, 13-10, to force a playoff for the National Football League eastern division title. In background is end Bob Schnelker, who caught a pass from Frank Gifford (left) for New York's only touchdown.—(CPC.)

City Soccer Entry Assured This Year

By GARTH WILTON

Victoria is virtually assured of an entry in the Pacific Coast Summer Soccer League for the 1959 season. Nanaimo, in the league as a probationery member last year, will probably lose its franchise.

Although it's not yet definite, all indications point to the league making that decision when its delegation visits Victoria and Nanaimo next month.

ONLY ONE

Only one team from Vancouver Island will play in the league this year. That much is certain.

It's almost certain that the team will be from Victoria, although Nanaimo still is conceded an outside chance of retaining its franchise.

But the Nanaimo club already has two strikes against it.

Without a sponsor last season, the club had financial difficulties and has not been able to raise the necessary $700 for its entry fee and bond.

Nanaimo's Caledonia Park leaves a great deal to be desired, in regard to both the playing field and seating facilities.

The Nanaimo team has prospects of securing a sponsor, but may have to wait until the middle of February for a final decision. The league is reluctant to wait this long, especially since there is no guarantee that they will get the sponsor.

Nanaimo, at this stage, just isn't prepared. Last year Victoria was in that position and lost out.

This year, however, the soccer boot is on the other foot. Victoria has obtained a sponsor for its proposed club, has presented a cheque for $700 to the league for its $500 entry fee and $200 bond and can offer the league Royal Athletic Park as its home grounds.

The only drawback is the increased travelling expenses if Victoria replaces Nanaimo as the sixth team in the league. And even at that, the five mainland teams — Carlings, Halecos, St. Andrews, New Westminster Royals and Hungaria, are said to be in favor of accepting Victoria.

'WE'RE READY'

"We are ready to start work on our team right now," Ed Viggers, president of the Victoria and District League, said last night. "All we're waiting for is the league's decision."

Meanwhile, although they're already being counted out, Nanaimo officials don't plan on bowing out of the soccer picture.

"Even if we aren't accepted this year, I've been assured we will be given consideration in 1960," said John Bealey, a member of the Nanaimo executive who took over as team manager midway through last season.

"I think the league would be wise to consider two teams from Vancouver Island. They only have one park in Vancouver, and three games a week is too much for their fans. Two Island teams would create new interest and rivalry in the league."

COVERED STANDS

"Besides," he said, "we expect to have Caledonia Park returfed and covered stands built by 1960."

Gogi Stewart, coach of the Nanaimo entry last year, doesn't think much of the "one team from Vancouver Island." idea.

"We had our problems last year," he said. "But we didn't expect to have a contender or draw too much fan support in our first year."

PRODUCING PLAYERS

He said that Nanaimo, with its fine juvenile soccer program, would soon be producing players of coast league calibre, "if the boys have something to look forward to and work for."

"The league hasn't been too interested in the promotion of soccer in the past," he said. "But with Charlie Alcock as president that might change. He's a good soccer man.

"Two teams from Vancouver Island in the league would certainly be a big boost for soccer in the province," he concluded.

Gump Stumped on This One

Last-second sprawl by goalie Gump Worsley of New York Rangers wasn't enough to stop a scoring drive by Billy Harris during a recent National Hockey League game against Toronto Maple Leafs. Harris edged Worsley out of position, then flipped puck into the empty net for the first of his two goals as the clubs played to a 4-4 tie. —(CPC.)

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

No one is happier than I am that the Christmas Tree tournament has grown into the best golf seller in the district. But there's nothing I would like better to have missed during the past two days, than having to tell so many of my golfing friends that we cannot find places for them.

When I arrived in the office Monday morning, Mrs. Jennie Dunn, who is my girl Friday in the running of this competition, was busy opening the stack of letters that were lying on her desk.

When they were all opened up and counted, there were 112 men entries—12 more than the limit we had set—and there were still 11 places for Up-islanders which had been held in reserve.

This meant that before we had time to apply a closure we had potentially 20 more players than last year's record 104, which was regarded as the top limit that could be put through the Victoria Golf Club during the hours of daylight.

What were we going to do?

First of all, we had to stop acceptance of any more entries for the men's event.

Then we had to find how we could handle the 124 players already on hand. At the moment I believe we may have the answer to that, but it requires official sanction before it can ben announced.

To all those who failed to make the entry I just want to say how personally regretful I am that it had to be this way. I only hope that by the time another year comes along we shall be able to devise some other way of coping with the business. Meantime there is really nothing we can do, but say "sorry."

I little thought five years ago when I persuaded Colonist publisher, Seth Halton, to sponsor this competition that it would develop in popularity the way it has done.

The original idea was that it might encourage a few hardy souls, who like myself, like to play summer and winter, to come out on Boxing Day, to have a little organized fun and shake down the turkey.

I told Mr. Halton that I thought we might get an entry of 30 to 40. Phil Taylor, who was then pro at Victoria Golf Club, thought we might get 50.

Anyway we went ahead. The Victoria Club kindly lent their club, Henry Birks and Company got to work to make a model Christmas Tree trophy. The Hudson's Bay Company offered to give a special prize to everyone who "braved the elements."

The Colonist provided hot drinks at the seventh hole in case anyone was freezing to death, and the competition was launched.

* * *

Right away it was a success. There were 90 players in the first competition.

Frank Scroggs won the low gross and his buttons partner Bob Morrison won the low net.

Next year, the ladies asked to be included and we had a men's entry of 87 and a women's entry of 34. Then as now they played at the Uplands, and the Hudson's Bay Company saw to it that they too were not forgotten.

Indeed the co-operation of the Hudson's Bay Company in supporting the event has been one of the great factors in its success, and I believe they have enjoyed being in it just as much as we have done.

However by 1956 it was obvious that we were running into difficulties. The entry for the first time went over the top. About half a dozen men's entries had to be returned.

Last year, the entry was closed by the second mail on the Monday after the appearance of the entry form in Sunday's Colonist. Over 40 players were disappointed.

This year, I have described already, I reckon there were well over 200 men wanting to participate.

With the ladies too, the event is growing in popularity. To date there are 50 entries and a new record is in sight.

So far the event has been lucky in getting reasonably good weather, and while the spell is bound to end sometime or other, we are keeping our fingers crossed for a nice day, so that once again from coast to coast we can tell Canadians how nice a place this is in which to spend not only summer holidays, but winter months as well.

* * *

This week's open buttons are an all Colwood affair. Not only is the regal course the venue, but both defenders and challengers are Colwood people. Defending are Bill Court and Micky Bartkow, and they will meet Vince Clarkson and Joe Evans on Sunday.

In the junior butons Bill Wakeham and Jim McColl Jr. of Gorge tangle again with Noel and Dale Dalziel of Uplands. This game was unfinished owing to darkness a couple of weeks ago at Victoria.

Congratulations are due Johnny Merriman in at last winning a Victoria winter medal. Johnny has been one of the district's most consistent players over a number of years. Also a hand to Laurie Carroll who shot a two under par 70. The new Victoria pro has not looked back since winning the Island Open last spring.

* * *

Representatives of Victoria, Colwood, Uplands, Gorge Vale and Royal Canadian Golf clubs met at the Victoria Club last week to discuss the district's golfing procedures.

The recommendation was made that the city championship should be cut from 72 holes to 54 holes with a guillotine being applied after 36 holes play.

It was also agreed that if Nanaimo is moved into a new zone, the Zone 1 championship will be played on a Victoria course over 36 holes and limited to low handicap players.

The proposals are being circulated to clubs for ratification at the annual general meeting early next year.

Winners of the turkeys at the Victoria Golf Club Saturday were Al Gunnason, four up, and Len Woodhouse, one up. In a play-off for a previous turkey tie Lou Williams, one down, beat three opponents.

Bill Corum Dead at 63

Bill Corum, long-time sports columnist, fight commentator and president of Churchill Downs race track, died in New York yesterday after a two-month illness.

Corum, 63, had been under treatment for cancer of the lung, but doctors said he died of pneumonia.

He was one of the last of the group of sportswriters developed during the upsurge of sports interest in the 1920s, and is credited with playing a major role in building the Derby into the classic it has become. It was Corum who first called it the "run for the roses."

Corum began his sports-writing career in 1927 and later became a syndicated columnist. He took over as president of Churchill Downs in 1949.

He was perhaps best known for his commentary at most of the major boxing matches.

Warriors Escape Basement, Ross Fails Record Attempt

Winnipeg Warriors climbed out of the cellar and Edmonton Flyers increased their lead in the eastern division of the Western Hockey League last night.

Flyers increased their division lead to seven points over the second-place Calgary Stampeders, skating to a decisive 6-2 victory over the New Westminster Royals.

At Winnipeg, Barry Ross failed to score a point in his 19th straight game, falling one short of the record held by Fern Perrault, as the Warriors defeated Saskatoon Quakers, 3-2, before 2,038 fans.

The victory boosted Warriors into third place, one point ahead of the Quakers.

Other Edmonton marksmen were Jack Hendrickson, Murray Oliver, Dave Amadio and Chuck Holmes.

Gene Ubriaco and Pat Hannigan scored for New Westminster.

BROKE LOOSE

After being held to a 1-1 tie in the first period, Flyers broke loose for three unanswered ogals in the second period and then outscored the Royals 2-1 in the third period.

Steve Wiituk scored on a breakaway with less than three minutes remaining at Winnipeg to give the Warriors the edge in a hard-hitting contest.

Pete Kapusta and rookie Gerry Brisson scored the other Winnipeg goals.

For the Quakers, rookie Dave Balon and Paul Masnick, who started the season with the New Westminster Royals were the marksmen.

Lucien Dechene turned in a sparkling performance in goal for the losers, blocking breakaway scoring bids by Billy Mosienko and Brisson before Wjtiuk's winning goal.

Saskatoon pulled Dechene in the last minute of play but were unable to get a shot on the Winnipeg goal.

Despite some rugged bodychecking, only three penalties were called by referee Vern Buffey, two against the Warriors.

This Rough Real Tough

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI)—Golfers were cautioned today not to spend too much time looking for balls they slice off the fairway at the Umtalis Hillside course. A family of lions has taken up residence in the rough.

National Free Plug Protested Out West

NEW YORK (CP)—Archie Moore pulled a fast one when he advertised a San Diego jewelry firm during the telecast of his title fight with Yvon Durelle at Montreal last Wednesday night.

Moore had the name of the firm on his robe. His manager Jack Doc Kearns and two seconds also had the company's name in big letters on the backs of their sweaters.

For the Quakers, rookie Dave Balon and Paul Masnick, who started the season with the New Westminster Royals were the marksmen.

Brown Sets League Record

Eddie, Jim Top Gainers

A little man who's thinking of quitting and a big man who's just getting started won this year's top offensive titles in the National Football League.

The little man, Eddie LeBaron, quick-handed quarterback of the Washington Redskins, wound up the season with 79 completions in 145 attempts for a 9.41 yard average gain.

LeBaron, who once played with Calgary Stampeders and says he may play "just one more year," threw 11 touchdown passes and posted 54.5 pass-completion percentage.

The big man, rookie fullback Jimmy Brown of the Cleveland Browns, won the ground-gaining title and set a National League record with a total of 1,527 yards. He averaged 5.9 yards per carry in besting Steve Van Buren's record of 1,146 yards.

Brown also won the scoring championship, scoring 108 points on 18 touchdowns. He scored 17 touchdowns on the ground, a league record.

Cleveland's Milt Plum, who completed 102 of 189 attempts for a 54 per cent completion average, was second to LeBaron. He averaged 8.57 yards per pass.

Behind Brown in the rushing department was Baltimore's Alan Ameche, who gained 791 yards on 171 attempts for an average of 4.6 yards.

Joe Perry of San Francisco set a new career ground-gaining record of 6,549 yards, bettering Van Buren's mark of 5,869 yards.

Eyes on Tournament

Vic Totems Have Plans

By JIM TAYLOR

For Victoria High School Totems, inter-high school basketball has followed a set and frustrating pattern. This, they say, is the season it could change.

Totems win the Vancouver Island championship almost as a matter of course. At worst they finish second, and still gain a berth in the B.C. playoffs. But there the bubble bursts.

There have been 13 B.C. high school tournaments, and the Totems have been in nine of them. In that time they have finished no better than third, and that's where their celebrated second-game jinx comes into play.

Almost invariably the Totems win their first game, lose their second to the eventual tournament champion, and sweep their remaining games impressively to finish third or fourth.

Totems haven't played for three weeks and won't play again until after Christmas holidays, but up at Vic High the talk is still of basketball and of a B.C. title for the team coach Porky Andrews calls "potentially one of our best ever."

It's a statement that takes in a lot of ground, because there have been some outstanding Victoria High teams. There were the Totems of the days of Chummy Crabbe and Ed Pedersen, and the 1956 Totems that went on to win the Canadian Junior championship two years later as Victoria College Vikings. But Andrews has basis for the thought.

Team Hasn't Jelled Yet

This season Andrews has more height to work with than on any of his previous clubs. His major problem, as he explains it, is that while the Totems are outstanding individually, they have yet to jell into the sort of team capable of winning a championship.

There are seven seniors on the club, five returnees and two transfer students from other Greater Victoria schools. Dave Black, a 5'10" guard, came to the Totems from Mount View, while Dave Nelson, a 6'4" forward, starred last season with Esquimalt Dockers.

Addition of the two has given Andrews plenty of height and offensive power on his first string. Black teams up with Island all-star Tom Wyatt (5'8") at guard. Joining Nelson at forward are Darrell Lorimer, 6'4" centre voted most valuable player in the Island tourney, and six-foot, one-inch Barry Sadler.

Other seniors are Robin Barnes (6'1"), and Tom Collett (6'0). Depth is provided by juniors Keith Hart (6'1"), John Balloch (5'9") and Bill Hobbis (5'8").

To make things even better, the Totems have experience. Most are graduates of the Sunday School Basketball League, where men like Ollie Goldsmith and Busher Jackson give sound training in the game's fundamentals. Andrews credits the league with playing a major role in developing the sport in the area.

Totems Playoff Favorites

In a way, it seems strange that this should be considered the Totem's big year, because for once they didn't finish on top of the city high school league. They suffered their only loss of the season at the hands of the unbeaten Esquimalt Dockers, but are heavy favorites to turn the tables in league playoffs next month.

In order to get that berth in the provincial turnament in Vancouver, Totems have to first get by the Lower Mid-Island tournament, then place in the top three in the Island event.

Totems will likely go into the Lower Mid-Island tourney as favorites to cop their fourth straight title.

To prepare for the tournaments, Andrews has lined up a rugged series of exhibition games. Totems will meet Victoria College juniors and Vikings, North Surrey, Lord Byng and Vancouver College.

The inter-scholastic tournament is set for Feb. 6-7, followed by the league playoffs Feb. 13-14, the first step along the road to what the Totems and Andrews consider a long-overdue provincial championship.

Elementary School Soccer Champs

Newly-crowned champions of elementary school soccer are members of Monterey school club, which beat Willows, 1-0, at Beacon Hill Park in yesterday's final, and finished the season with a 12-1 record. Team members are, back row (left to right) J. Emery (coach), Ian Stefaniec, Mickey Moffatt, Donald MacKay, Philip Pimlott, Tommy Child, Jack Manson, Ricky Cockburn, John MacArthur, Richard Field, W. Brynjolfson (principal). Front row, Bobby Belcher, John Holtum, Wayne Stretch, Ian Clarke, Garry Ford, Keith Rowe, David Bamford, David Oliver, Harley Kennedy.—(Colonist photo.)

Tennis Battle on Horizon; Kramer Loads His Guns

PERTH, Australia—Professional tennis promoter Jack Kramer, who has been feuding with Australian amateur tennis officials for some time, yesterday threatened to wage an all-out war against the amateurs if they go through with an attempt to ban his troupe on amateur courts throughout the world.

The Lawn Tennis Association of Australia drew up a resolution at Melbourne Monday night asking the international federation to impose such a ban.

"I don't know how much longer I can go on turning the other cheek," Kramer said.

He said if he wanted to be vindictive he could throw his pros into direct competition with the big amateur tournaments.

Meanwhile, Kramer won't be around when the U.S. sends its Davis Cup team against Italy Friday in an interzone match. He left yesterday for Sydney on a business trip.

Jones made it clear that Kramer's absence from the match was due only to business and not outside pressures.

The 70-year-old Jones refused to name his team for Friday's match, but there is growing indication that he may pass over Barry MacKay, U.S. hero of last year's challenge round, and use Alex Olmedo and Ham Richardson in the singles.

Durelle Dons Skates; No Threat to NHL

MONCTON, N.B. (UPI)—Yvon Durelle, the battling fisherman from Baie Ste. Anne, N.B. will soon trade in his boxing gloves for a hockey stick, but only for the time being.

Durelle, who went down to defeat before the free swinging style of lightheavyweight champion Archie Moore in a Dec. 10 title bout in Montreal, has been given permission to play this week with the Moncton Hawks of the North Shore Hockey League, a senior circuit.

Durelle, an avid hockey fan, has never played in organized hockey before but has participated in shinny games in various New Brunswick points.

Boost a Shut-Ins Morale

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

It often happens that on our Christmas shopping list is a shut-in, an invalid or an elderly person who can't get around much any more. For those unfortunates who must necessarily remain within the four walls of their room, I know of no gift which will give greater pleasure and a greater lift to their morale than a flowering houseplant.

I have seen many cases where the shut-in has been discouraged and apathetic, taking little or no interest in surroundings or personal appearance, old eyes too tired for much reading or crocheting, bored and fed up to the teeth. And I have seen the gift of a houseplant spark the invalid into a new interest in life, awakening each morning impatient to see what new growth has been made overnight, and watching with keen excitement the formation and development of each new bud and flower.

The selection of such a gift houseplant should be made with considerable thought and foresight. As you can well imagine, the early wilting and dying of the beloved plant can have a very serious effect on the mental health and outlook of its owner, and if the plant is not chosen with the greatest of care, the patient may well be worse off than before.

It isn't likely that a gift houseplant will be neglected; on the contrary, the greatest hazard to the plant will be the too-loving care it will receive—the eternal fussing and petting, driblets of water given at all hours of the day, and little treats of fertilizer administered [illegible] needs the constitution of a wild bramble to stand up under such constant mothering.

Another hazard is the warmth of the room. A room which is pleasantly warm to a busy housewife is uncomfortably chilly to those whose movements are restricted, and it is always necessary to turn up the heat in the room of an inactive person. Most of our popular flowering houseplants thrive best in the 50 to 60 degree range, and it takes a bit of searching around to find subjects which will be at home in the 70 to 75 degree warmth of an invalid's room.

Our old friend the African violet meets all these specifications, and is an excellent choice. Native to the lower slopes of the Usambara mountains in East Africa, it is no stranger to heat, and while improper care may prevent the plant from flowering, it is a rare thing to hear of an African violet actually dying.

The violet may suffer from lack of atmospheric moisture in an overheated room, for the relative humidity drops in direct proportion to the rise in temperature, or to put it another way, the greater the difference between outdoor and indoor temperature, the drier will be the air in the room.

One way to overcome this is to grow the plant in an inexpensive aquarium, closed on top with a sheet of glass, and with a little damp peat moss scattered on the floor of the case. Or a simple glass case can be constructed with squares of window glass and electrician's tape to bind the corners.

Other plants suitable for this purpose are the Gloxinia from the tropical rain forests of Brazil, the Cape Primrose or Streptocarpus from Madagascar, and Impatiens sultani—Busy Lizzie or Patience Plant—from Zanzibar. All the cactus and succulent plants will do well in a sick room atmosphere as long as you can insure against over-watering, but avoid such plants as the Cyclamen, Cineraria and dwarf houseplant Chrysanthemums, all of which go downhill rapidly in an overheated room.

Gracie's the Trouble

The trouble with the George Burns show, to put it as simply as possible right at the outset, is that Ronnie Burns is no substitute for Gracie Allen. I hurriedly add that this is not meant to undersell Ronnie. He could quite conceivably make a marvellous substitute for somebody else, say Ricky Nelson, but not Gracie.

Gracie is—I can think of no other way to put this—funny. Ronnie—I can think of no other way to put this either—isn't. He's a lot of other things. He's personable, he's charming, he sings uncommonly well. But funny he ain't and that puts the Burns show seriously out of kilter because laughs are what they're striving for.

* * *

The plots are outlandish. Ronnie is incessantly trying to get an acting job for one of his girl friends by preposterous strategems. Or Blanche Morton, George's secretary, is wildly misunderstanding something she hears over the telephone. And just as I get to muttering to myself that these plots are just too implausible to hold any degree of credibility, I recollect that they are no more implausible, probably less so, than the ones Gracie got away with for some 30 years.

The difference is—well—Gracie. In her own little sunlit and improbable world, everything became possible and even sweetly reasonable. But Gracie is gone and we'll just have to make the best of it. I'm not sure they are making the best of it.

* * *

Somewhere along about the middle of the show, George wanders out to the camera and does one of his monologues. These are delicious sometimes, but not as delicious as the ones about Gracie used to be. George Burns has a fey and fresh humor of his own and this particular show has not brought it out the way I expected. Maybe it'll take a little time. After all, when a man employs infinite variations on a single joke—Gracie—for 35 years, it takes a little while to break in a new joke.

Lines like "You might be to butterflies what John Wayne is to horses" sound as if somebody had made them up. You're not supposed to think of those things. The canned laughter on this show, incidentally, is especially insense and unlikely.

At one point Tony Martin, a guest of the week, says to Ronnie: "Ronnie, where did you get all these tricks?"

"When mother retired, she left them to me."

But the trouble is, she didn't.

Brando Has to Pay More

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — The Marlon Brando romance with France Nuyen isn't new. He rehearsed her in Hollywood before she took off for New York and the lead in "The World of Suzie Wong." He had wanted France for "One-Eyed Jacks," a western. Now, if Brando lands France for some other movie, he'll have to pay more.

Zsa Zsa Gabor met the next Mrs. George Sanders in London. And Benita Colman, Ronald's widow and a kind gal, said "Don't be sad, Zsa Zsa. After the marriage, we can all be friends together."

Rock Hudson is fuming over the story, with his by-line, in a fan magazine. He says he didn't write it, and he may sue.

The Tony Steel-Anita Ekberg marriage is on probation. Their friends believe it will not even be as is by next spring.

Judy Garland's album, "Judy in Love," is the biggest selling album she's ever had.

June Allyson is having a delicious time in her long stretch off the screen just being Dick Powell's wife. "She won't work, for as long as I can afford to keep her at home," said Dick—and that might be forever, with his Four Star company filming nine successful TV series, not to mention two pictures for 20th, including "The Bachelor's Baby," starring Bing Crosby.

Got a Christmas card from Red Skelton, wife Georgia and daughter Valentina—a white embossed Madonna and Child medalion, against a blue-green background, and inside, the message that a contribution in my name has been made to the Richard Skelton Memorial Fund for research on leukemia.

In Spain, they pronounce Gina Lollobrigida "Heena Lollobreeheeha." When Gina as Sheba took her bath of spiced milk for her "Solomon and Sheba" picture, they put heaters on the stage and asked the 40 or so crew members to turn their backs. I understand some peeked.

Peter Lawford, who would rather produce than act, will co-produce the new Carl Reiner TV comedy series. Peter also is co-producer of his film, "Oceans 11," with Frank Sinatra.

Man Too Busy To Accept Honor

NEW DELHI (AP)—A sick man with no visible means of support is walking through the villages of India with no concern for the fact that the Philippine government wants to give him $10,000.

Vinoba Bhave has scarcely taken time to acknowledge the award of the first Ramon Magsaysay prize for community service.

The award is to be given yearly to an Asian whose life work typifies the spirit and beliefs of the late Philippine president.

Reaction of the 63-year-old follower of Gandhi so far has been to continue the work that won him the award: tramping on foot from village to village, persuading Indians who have land to give a portion to those who have none.

The award isn't the first item Bhave has ignored in favor of carrying on his work without interruption. He has paid equally scant attention in the past to recurrent malaria, a stomach ulcer and chronic dysentery.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	All Pass

Opening lead: ♡ 5

North has a choice of actions after South opens with a spade. He could bid two diamonds and raise spades on the next round. However the three-spade bid is far more descriptive, and makes slam explorations possible at below-game level if opener has additional values.

South's play to trick one will decide the fate of the contract. If, unthinkingly, he wins the first trick and draws trumps in order to finesse diamonds later, West will win the diamond king and put his partner in with the heart queen. The club switch, so obvious at this point will set the contract.

However, South can make sure of limiting his losers to one heart, one club and one diamond by simply ducking the first trick to make certain that West cannot regain the lead. After winning East's return of either a heart or a spade, South can draw trumps and safely finesse diamonds into the East hand. West can never get in to make the killing club play through dummy's king.

Secret Smokers Seen

CHICAGO (UPI) - Police disclosed yesterday that two boys were seen smoking forbidden cigarettes and lighting matches in a stairwell scarcely 10 minutes before fire raged through Our Lady of the Angels school.

Police arson squad detectives said two boy survivors of the Dec. 1 blaze which killed 92 children and nuns had seen a pair of older boys smoking in the stairwell at between 2:20 and 2:30 on the afternoon

At 2:42 p.m. firemen received the first alarm of the fire which trapped children at their desks or sent them leaping in flames from windows in the nation's third worst school fire tragedy on record.

Police had long believed that the blaze started in debris which investigators say they found in the stairwell.

Tuesday's disclosure provided the first positive statements from witnesses to back the smoking theory.

It's All Mistake, Patient Informed

LONDON (UPI) - Orders are orders and so taxi driver Bill Beth, 37, dutifully showed up at Southend Hospital Monday when told to report for an operation.

Hours later he was lying nervously on the operating table.

The anaesthetist's needle was poised when suddenly surgeon David Evans recognized him as a former patient and cried: "Stop. It's all a mistake.

"I'm afraid there's been a clerical error. You don't need an operation." Beth agreed.

"I got a letter a week ago telling me to report to Southend Hospital Dec. 15," he said. "It said arrangements had been made for me to undergo a hospital operation.

"I was very surprised. I'd had an operation—by Mr. Evans—at another hospital last June. I thought I had been cured."

But such was Beth's respect for official papers that to the hospital he went.

A hospital spokesman said there would be an investigation. "I've never heard of such a thing happening before," he said.

Ottawa Funds for Painting Not There

Gallery Denies Sulks

OTTAWA (CP) - Published reports Tuesday said the government is faced with threats of resignation by National Gallery trustees and by gallery director Alan Jarvis, who promptly denied them.

These reports said the gallery had received authorization to buy two paintings by European old masters and had contracted to purchase them for $900,000 on the assumption the funds were available. But it developed there had been a misunderstanding about available funds and the government turned thumbs down on the deal.

Beyond denying that he had been trying to resign, Mr. Jarvis refused to discuss the art deal, saying only: "I have nothing to say."

The pictures involved are said to be a $350,000 Flemish landscape by Bruegel and the painting The Madonna by Lorenzo Monaco, reputedly worth $550,000.

The reports said the paintings had already been purchased by agents in London and New York when the government balked at the bill.

It was speculated that the government, faced with record unemployment earlier this year, felt it could not justify to the public all purchases for such huge sums.

Pay Boost Awarded To Cowichan Teachers

DUNCAN—An arbitration board has awarded teachers to Cowichan School District 65 a salary increase of approximately seven per cent over the [illegible] scale. Involved are 141 teachers.

$67,000 will be added to the bill for teachers' services in 1959, based on the present number on the staff. Teachers' salaries in 1958 will cost the district $537,310. In 1959 they will reach $604,000, or more than two mills increase in taxation.

Provision will also have to be made for additional teachers in 1959," school board officials said.

The formula proposed by the teachers would have had the effect, according to arbitration board member T. E. H. Ellis, representing the school board, of increasing the principals' salaries by 55 per cent over a five-year period.

Members of the arbitration board were Peter Stone, chairman; T. E. H. Ellis for the school board and Dr. Raymond [illegible] Duncan for the teachers of the Cowichan District Teachers' Association.

Nanaimo Hike Granted

NANAIMO — School teachers in Nanaimo school district 68 received a 7.42 per cent pay boost on their upcoming contract and MSA coverage.

Award by an arbitration board means the district's teaching staff in 24 schools have won wage increases totalling about 18 per cent in the last year. An arbitration board handed down a 10 per cent increase at the end of 1957.

The increase will amount to a further $74,345 to be paid out next year in teacher salaries.

Native Cleric AOTS Speaker

LADYSMITH — Dr. Peter Kelly, a Haida Indian and former president of the United Church's B.C. Conference, told a meeting of the As One That Serves Club here, they should fraternize more with the native Indian people in their neighborhood.

"The responsibility is yours," he told AOTS members from Ladysmith, Chemainus and Duncan.

Dr. Kelly said some Indians frequented places of little repute where there was liquor because "companionship on even terms" was extended to them there.

His views were backed strongly by a speaker from the Cowichan Indian band.

Playthings Pour In for Sale

Big Boost for 500 Christmas Fund

Bargains Aplenty at Saturday's Big Toy Auction!

There'll be bargains aplenty for Christmas shoppers when Maynard's doors open at 7:30 p.m. Saturday on the toy auction which will benefit the Colonist's 500 Christmas Fund.

Donations of toys, which started a couple of weeks ago, became a flood last night as thousands of playthings poured into Memorial Arena at the start of the final night of the Kinsmen giant bingo.

Meanwhile, the Hudson's Bay Company donated a large quantity of toys from its toyland. They are new but have been slightly [illegible] marked in the excitement of toyland shopping.

And most of the toys that piled into the arena were brand new: rocket planes, Elvis Presley-type guitars, dolls' houses, roller skates, revolvers, pinball machines, cars, aircraft, xylophones, ray guns and books.

[illegible] fit to fill any child's Christmas stocking on Dec. 25.

Many hundreds of them were carefully wrapped in gay Christmas wrappings, but wrapped or not they will all help brighten the season for Victoria's 500 most needy families.

And even Kinsmen took time [illegible] success of their club's second giant bingo night to donate toys to the appeal.

Eleven air cadets from Victoria's No. 89 (Kinsmen) Squadron and five Cadettes gave up their time to accept toys and hand out tickets which entitled donors to take part in a turkey raffle.

Nine-year-old David Harvey, 917 Green Street, had no toys to donate to the fund, but he gave freely of his time helping load the toys for transport to Maynard's.

And Lewis Robe, 3853 Carey Road, an employee of Avis U-Drive, helped pack the toys, load them in a large van and drove them off to Maynard's where they will be auctioned Saturday starting at 7:30 p.m.

Mr. Robe's time and the use of the van were both donated to help the 500 Fund.

The toys may go at bargain prices Saturday, but they will still give a tremendous boost to the fund.

There is still time for generous Victoria residents to [illegible] and send spare toys to Maynard's.

Island forecast, mostly cloudy with showers

NO. 6—101st YEAR | VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1958 | SECOND NEWS SECTION

Teachers, Pupils Alerted to Danger

School Trees Fireproof

Only fireproof Christmas trees and decorations are permitted in Greater Victoria schools this year.

By the time schools close for the Christmas holidays on Friday virtually every teacher and principal will be an expert on tree and ornament fireproofing. (See fire chief's warning on Page 5.)

Hamilton Smith, superintendent of buildings and grounds for the school board, said yesterday that careful fire prevention instructions have been sent to staffs of city schools.

"We just want to emphasize the importance of Christmas parties in classrooms being safe," Mr. Smith said.

The Christmas tree placed in a bucket of ammonium sulphate will absorb the solution and become immune to fire.

Ornaments, including paper ones, must be thickly sprayed with [illegible] and boric acid solution.

No electric lights are permitted on school Christmas trees.

Mr. Smith hopes to impress teachers and students alike with the potential dangers.

"We hear of tragedies where live candles are allowed," he said. "We don't want to bring them to our classrooms."

Essay Wins $100 For Local Girl

A Royal Oak Junior-Senior High School student has won a $100 top prize in the Vancouver Island section of the annual pulp and paper industry essay contest.

Joanna Curtis, 16, of 1111 D'Arcy Lane, is a Grade 11 student at the school. She will be presented with the cheque at a special school assembly Friday at 1.30 p.m.

Defence, Crown Sum Up

Mantha Case Goes To the Jury Today

Judge Ruttan's Charge Scheduled This Morning

A man who would break into a heavily-guarded, barricaded naval barracks, stab a man and then escape "would have to be either drunk or crazy."

This is what defence counsel George Gregory told the Mantha murder trial jury yesterday in summing up his case.

Summing up was also completed by the prosecution which is trying to prove that Leading Seaman Leo Anthony Mantha stabbed to death at HMCS Naden Sept. 6 Able Seaman Aaron "Bud" Jenkins, 24.

CHARGE TO JURY

Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan will begin his charge to the Assize Court jury at 10:30 a.m. today. The jury will then retire to consider its verdict.

Mr. Gregory said that "only someone obsessed with drink" would take the chance of getting into Naden, stabbing someone and then getting out without being seen.

The chances were "one in a million," he said.

NO MOTIVE

"Why did Leo Mantha stab Jenkins?" Mr. Gregory asked the jury. "There was no motive."

He said that no man in possession of his faculties would ever set upon such a scheme. "The chance of success was absolutely nil."

Mr. Gregory reminded the jury that Mantha "is charged with murder, not with being a homosexual."

BE WRONG

The defence counsel suggested that if the jury found the accused guilty on the grounds that "the world would be better off without Mantha" it would be as wrong as saying the same thing about Jenkins.

Mr. Gregory cited a skull fracture as a possible cause of death, "and if this is so, this man is guilty of no crime at all."

"Maybe Jenkins fell on a step going up to the second floor of the Naden building," he said yesterday.

TWO DOCTORS

The defence counsel asked the jury to consider the evidence of two doctors, Dr. Ross McNeely, Royal Jubilee pathologist, and Lt.-Cmdr. J. E. Schinbein of HMCS Naden.

Dr. McNeely was obviously unhappy with the way the autopsy was conducted," said Mr. Gregory.

And if Dr. Schinbein was so satisfied that death was from stabbing and nothing else, why was he wasting his time and Dr. McNeely's time in having various organs examined," Mr. Gregory asked.

SPECULATIVE POSSIBILITY

Crown prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie said that in the alternate death contention, the defence had raised a speculative possibility.

"If a school burns down as one did recently in Chicago," he said, "and a number of children die, it is a speculative possibility that they died of a heart attack."

The evidence of Dr. Schinbein showed that Jenkins died of a massive hemorrhage following a throat wound.

FANTASTIC CLAIM

The defence claim is fantasy.

Mr. McKenzie charged that Mantha's scheme was hazardous . . . full of risk and savagery.

He had no innocent plan in mind; he took a knife with him.

HEAVY KNIFE

"How can a man wield a heavy hunting knife, cutting through bone and muscle as it must, without intending to do it?" Mr. McKenzie asked the jury.

Earlier yesterday, Victoria psychiatrist Dr. D. E. Alcorn gave testimony regarding Mantha's naval service record, three years war and post-war, and the results of several examinations by the doctor.

Dr. Alcorn said that a definite personality change overcame Mantha when at the age of 10 he learned of his true parentage.

MOTHER HIS SISTER

It was disclosed Monday that when Mantha was born his unmarried mother took him to live at the Quebec home of her parents. He was raised to believe that his mother was his sister and his grandparents were his parents.

Reading from one of the reports from Mantha's Royal Canadian Navy file Dr. Alcorn quoted:

His troubles revolve around homosexual tendencies which are present at all times. He feels he can control it but is afraid that when he is drunk he will give vent to suppressed desires.

Another naval report which recommended psychiatric treatment after discharge at Montreal, read:

LAST PLACE

"Obviously the service is the last place in the world for a man of this type."

"Society expects from the homosexual," said the doctor, "a degree of chastity which creates a great strain and results in gross disturbances and a so foolish and impulsive behavior, such as the time," he said, when Mantha stormed onto the bridge of a navy ship and complained in vile language to the captain about the food.

'Glad It's Settled'

Ajeet Finds Home

DUNCAN—Ajeet Bawa, young Duncan East Indian, was preparing yesterday to take up residence in Victoria, where he was denied rental of a house three weeks ago.

"I'm happy about getting a home closer to my work," he said. "And I'm glad the whole business is settled."

He was offered a number of homes for rent in Victoria after it was discovered a landlord had given him his month's rent back when neighbors objected to an East Indian family.

Mrs. Murdo MacKenzie, neighbor here of the Ajeet Bawa family for many years, said yesterday they have always been good neighbors.

NANAIMO—Impudent burglars pulled a fast one early Wednesday when they broke into Hub City Service and Sales and drove a new car out of the showroom.

The car was low on gas, however, and the thieves had to abandon it a short distance away.

Earlier in the morning police reported smash-and-grab raiders stole 21 watches and an electric shaver from Miller's Jewellers in Victoria Crescent.

Alternative suggestion was the development of Nanaimo tidal flats farther to the south.

Don't Drink and Drive

Be Smart—Play Safe!

Christmas and New Year's will be merrier and happier if drivers and pedestrians heed common-sense rules of safety.

This is the message of Victoria Chief Constable John Blackstock, and he is joined by Chief Constables Gilbert [illegible] of Esquimalt, Robert Smith of Oak Bay and W. A. Pearson of Saanich.

"Basically," said Chief Blackstock, "use care in your travels around town during this season of many visits.

"If you're driving, do your hurrying before you get in the car. Leave a little earlier, then don't drive so fast.

"If you're walking, use crosswalks, look both ways for traffic. At night, wear or carry something white so you may be seen . . . or carry a flashlight.

Above all, don't mix alcohol and gasoline.

This is a season of conviviality. If . . . and you should know . . . you feel you've had that one drink too many, DON'T try to drive your car. From Dec. 24 through Dec. 31 get in touch with the police department. They will look after the car for you and do their best to see that you get home.

However, if you persist in driving when you've had too much to drink, be sure that you face a stiff penalty.

"The time to stop driving when you've had some drinks is before you get into your car."

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Some times you give excellent ad [illegible] example of Knucklehead [illegible] was your advice to [illegible]. You told her to leave her relatives alone. If you can't get along WITH them (quote the mighty Landers) then learn to get along without them.

Believe me, Ann, I'd like nothing better than to leave my relatives alone. But how can I when they won't leave ME alone?

I haven't been inside my brother's home for [illegible] years. Yet he and his fat wife and their three [illegible] come over almost every [illegible] at dinner time. My mother in law is a regular boarder three times a week [illegible]. She lives two blocks [illegible] a card from [illegible]. She hasn't had me for a [illegible] five years, says her [illegible].

I have two [illegible] whose [illegible] is too [illegible] LAZY [illegible] school is three blocks from me so I have them five days a week.

[illegible] drop [illegible]. I get no help with the dishes. [illegible] I think the only solution is [illegible]. What [illegible]?—UP TO HERE.

Bullet-Proof Vest

Dear U.T.H.: I say put on your bullet-proof vest — YOU are a relative to THEM.

If you permit these free loaders to pile in on you day after day, week after week, year after year, without so much as a hello or a [illegible] or a drop dead, then it's you who is a [illegible].

People who let themselves get kicked around [illegible] and then cry buckets because people take advantage of them get no sympathy from me. If you're "Up To Here," don't just be there . . . Say something.

Dear Ann: I would like to comment on your reply to Hattie, the woman who complained because her husband didn't remember her birthday or anniversary. How right you were, Ann, when you told her to quit moaning, that such things aren't really important. And how courageous of you to take this stand. Gift giving has become a sacred cow. To suggest that it's not really important in this day of ultra commercialism is suicide.

My husband never forgot a single birthday, anniversary, [illegible]. And there were plenty of flowers and boxes of candy in between. I found out after 18 years of marriage that he had women everywhere. His gifts were [illegible] gimmicks to cover a guilty conscience. The best gift a husband can give his wife is plain old loyalty. I never had it. And my name is legion.—GIFT RAPPED.

Ill-Mannered Betty

Dear Ann: Our 17-year-old daughter has a girl friend who stops for her on the way to school every morning. Betsy comes straight to the breakfast table and makes herself right at home. Both my husband and I find their incessant chatter nerve-wracking.

I've asked my daughter to tell Betsy to please wait in the living room since she doesn't seem to know that some people like privacy. She says it would be an insult and [illegible].

My husband is disgusted with the whole thing. He thinks Betsy is ill-mannered [illegible].—[illegible] MOTHER.

Dear [illegible] Mother: Betsy is [illegible] SHOULD be told. Give your daughter two days in which to tell her. If she fails, greet Betsy at the door, and hand her a couple of magazines and say, "Make yourself comfortable in the living room please. Mary will be with you when she finishes her breakfast."

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for Ann Landers' new booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing [illegible] coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

9 IN MEMORIAM

DAY—In loving memory of Elizabeth (Mam) Day, wife of A. L. Day, 1121 Myrtle Ave., who passed away Dec. 17, 1950.

An angel came with silent tread
And stood beside my loved one's bed;
Touched her hand, and gently said,
Come.

—Ever remembered by Dad and family.

JEFFREY—In loving memory of my dear wife Mary Jeffrey, who passed away December 17, 1954.

[illegible]
Since death its gloom, its shadow cast
Within our home where all seemed bright
And took from me a shining light.
I miss that light and ever will,
Her vacant place there's none to fill.
Down here I mourn but not in vain,
For up in Heaven we will meet again.

Always remembered by her loving husband.

MAIN—In loving memory of Alexander Main, who passed away December 17, 19[illegible].
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear.
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.
Ever remembered by his loving daughter Edith Kathleen and [illegible].

A LOVELIER YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

STARS OF THE EVENING. An elegant holiday season is foretold by new evening dress collections. Silhouettes are opulent — bubbled, ballooned and draped. There is more luxury still in fabrics—in the shimmer of satins, brocades, velvets, chiffons and taffetas. Brilliant colors further the theme.

With so much bounty at hand, how can a belle not look grand? The only possible hindrance is in accessories. However, lovely in themselves, they will detract from a dress unless they appear a custom-made part of it.

This does not mean that all the accessories should match a dress, but rather they should subtly blend with it in color, fabric and mood. To set the mood, fashion offers slim-toed slippers with lowered, carved heels; costume-tinted stockings, long, envelope purses; 20-button gloves; lavish chandelier earrings and pins.

For blending colors and fabrics, there's a guide rule: use no more than three colors or fabrics in a costume and no more than three accessories in the same color. To exemplify: a ruby velvet dress would be perfectly accessorized with a ruby satin purse and slippers, the palest pink kid gloves and white-rhinestone earrings. Picture that costume and you picture elegance!

National Fad Feared

Tokyo's TV Tower New Suicide Lure

TOKYO (AP)—City authorities fear Tokyo's new television tower, rising like a great steel needle above the skyline, may become a fresh lure for suicide-bent Japanese.

The Tokyo Tower, higher than Paris' Eiffel Tower, claimed its first victim this month, 47 days before it was due to be officially opened. A 21-year-old thwarted lover leaped to his death.

NATIONAL FAD

In Japan, the most suicide-conscious country in the world, a novel way of killing oneself can start a minor national fad, like scrabble or hoop-twirling.

Centuries of tradition have made jisatsu (suicide) the honorable way out for a Japanese—from a Samurai warrior class—heroically carving himself to death with a sword to a housewife jumping in front of an electric train.

59 A DAY

Two years ago, 21,777 tormented Japanese—59 a day—killed themselves. More than 20,000 have died wilfully and violently every year since 1953, the world's highest rate.

"We have an aptitude for death," said a young Japanese. "I guess we just don't consider life too important. And here, unlike other countries, there is no disgrace in suicide."

CLASSIC WAY

A death leap into a volcanic crater has been a classic way for young lovers to overcome parental opposition, ever since a young girl did it in the 1930s.

Years ago a student carved: "Life is an enigma no one can solve" on a tree trunk and leaped over Kegon waterfall. The scrap of philosophy was quoted all over Japan and dozens trekked to the falls to end their lives.

But less spectacular methods like poison, drowning, shooting or wrist-slashing cause the majority of suicide deaths. Hara kiri — disemboweling by knife — is rare these days.

Mother's Deathbed Wish

'Find My Boy'

LISTOWEL, Ont. (CP)—An investigation by three sisters into the disappearance 10 years ago of their brother, Ross Nichol, then 24, his wife, and their then four-year-old son has been re-opened after the death of his mother.

Mrs. Reba May Nichol's last words were: "Find my boy."

Nichol left his farm in the Kitchener area in 1948 and headed for Toronto in a taxi with his wife Effie and son Worthy.

They left behind some 40 head of cattle, pigs, hens and other stock. Nobody has heard of the Nichols since.

Only clue to his disappearance is a trip by Nichol to Saskatchewan not long before the family disappeared. He wanted to sell a car.

[illegible] about two weeks.

Since he left, his mother and father have died. He is also entitled to share in the estates of at least two other relatives.

Ottawa Stands Pat for Present

Hospital Scheme Extensions Wait

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government plans to stand pat on the present hospital insurance scheme until it can be tested in operation for a while.

Health Minister Monteith said Tuesday that he can see no change for the next few years in the hospital insurance program he described as "probably the most ambitious project ever undertaken in the field of health in Canada."

An extension of the program to include hospital care for tuberculosis and mental hospital patients is not being planned, he said.

Four of the eight provinces that joined the plan have asked that the federal government include such care under the cost-sharing scheme.

Federal and provincial governments share the hospital care costs on roughly a 50-50 basis although the share is higher for the federal government in some provinces and lower in others, depending on local costs.

Extension of federal participation in such a scheme to cover medical care also has not been considered, Mr. Monteith said.

Diplomat Plans Mediation

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) —Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold yesterday planned a new trouble-shooting mission to the Middle East to calm the latest border flare-up between Israel and the United Arab Republic.

The security council, discussing Israel's charge of U.A.R. "aggression" for the second day, decided late Monday to turn the case over to the Palestine truce observation commission with Hammarskjold's help.

Hammarskjold will take on his new Middle East mission in connection with his custom of spending Christmas with the U.N. Emergency Force on duty in the Gaza Strip, along the southern border of Israel with the United Arab Republic.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

LONDON (Reuters)—Beefeaters of the Tower of London who guard the Crown jewels were reported threatening a partial strike.

[illegible] that Tower Governor Brig. L. F. E. Wielder has been told of the Beefeaters' threat in a letter from their union.

It say the Yeomen of the Guard are threatening to refuse to carry out some "overtime" duties in protest against an increase in rent.

One scarlet-and-blue-clad Beefeater is quoted by the newspaper as saying: "Never has there been anything like this since the Tower was built in 1078."

The Yeomen, middle-aged British ex-servicemen of staff [illegible] loyalty, live with their families in apartments inside the Tower at nominal rents of five shillings (70 cents) a week.

NATO Intelligence Warns:

Africa Offensive Next for Soviets

PARIS (AP)—The Atlantic council of foreign ministers got a warning Tuesday that Russia is trying to remove Western influence from Africa and gain control there for Soviet purposes.

A secret intelligence report produced by the NATO secretariat called attention to:

1. A full-blown Soviet diplomatic offensive to influence African nations toward superficial neutralism, nationalism, suspicion of the West and toward trade and cultural links with Moscow.

2. Unofficial Soviet-prompted moves to project Communist influence into Africa's many and varied local nationalist organizations.

Find Winter Jobs CLC Urges Ottawa

OTTAWA (UPI)—The Canadian Labor Congress appealed yesterday to governments and employers to combat unemployment which rose to 361,000 jobless last month.

President Claude Jodoin of the million-member labor body noted that the most serious unemployment increases usually occur between November and January.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported that the number of jobless jumped up by 48,000 between October and November to 361,000. This was 85,000 more than were out of work and seeking employment a year earlier.

Unemployment hit a post war peak of 597,000 last March.

The Bureau of Statistics noted optimistically that unemployment had jumped 20,000 between August and November last year while it increased only 80,000 over the same period this year.

The Story's Over

A four-chapter story concluded in city police court yesterday, with a Victoria seaman ordered to pay a total of $388.

Ian R. McIntyre, 1857 Crescent, pleaded guilty to impaired driving, failing to remain at the scene of an accident, and two charges of willful damage.

First chapter opened Friday night in the 2600 block, on Scott, with collision of two cars. One left the scene.

Const. Richard Ward told the court yesterday that investigating police followed a trail of water left by the second car, which led them to Fernwood and Gladstone and to the second chapter.

There they found accused trying to start his car, which was damaged. By his condition, they believed him to be impaired—a belief subsequently supported by a medical examination.

When they sought to take him to the police station, said Const. Ward, accused developed a fighting mood and in the resulting scuffle the officer's jacket was torn.

Third chapter developed at the police station where accused, still in the same mood, kicked a panel from a door.

Finally, in court, Magistrate Henry C. Hall fined accused $250 for impaired driving, $100 for leaving the accident scene, $5 for wilful damage to the jacket, and $10 for wilful damage to the door.

In addition, he was ordered to pay $5 for repairing the jacket, and $18 for repairing the door.

* * *

Also fined $250 for impaired driving was James Arthur Murray, 1137 Bewdley, who pleaded guilty and who was restricted to driving for business only for one year.

Court was told accused's car went out of control on Esquimalt Road near Tyee early yesterday, spinning into the curb and then into a rock bank. Damage to the car totalled about $400.

Screams Made Him Kill Mother, Children, Says Boy

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A tall, pale boy who said a child's bedtime antics and mother's screams drove him into a frenzy of killings, stood with bowed head Tuesday as the names of his five victims were read off at his arraignment on murder charges.

Carl A. Eder, 16, was remanded in custody of the juvenile division of Superior Court, which will determine whether he is to be tried as an adult or juvenile.

The victims were named in a murder complaint read by Judge Fenton Garfield as Mrs. Lois Pendergast, 37, and her children, David, 9, Thomas, 6, Diane, 4, and Allen, 2.

Eder, who slouches a bit from his six feet, two inches, bowed his head at the name of David and seemed near tears as the other children were named.

His capture in an unused ballroom Monday night ended a hunt that started when Thomas Pendergast, 39, a San Diego aircraft pipefitter, found his family slain Friday night.

B.C. Nurse Feared Dead

OLGA DUNCAN
. . . search for body

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI)—Police confirmed last night they were looking for the body of Olga Duncan, 30, a former Vancouver nurse and wife of a Santa Barbara attorney "presumed" the victim of foul play.

Mrs. Duncan's disappearance on Nov. 17 was disclosed Monday, when the FBI entered the case to investigate her possible kidnapping.

Police here said the search for a body was being conducted in several construction areas, including one where two men now in custody formerly worked on a ranch.

The two men, identified as Augustine Baldonado, 25, and Lewis E. Moya, denied any knowledge of the woman's disappearance. They are still being questioned.

However, police said no charges had been filed regarding the disappearance.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan, 54, the missing woman's mother-in-law, faces charges that she posed as Olga and hired a man to masquerade as her son to gain an annulment of the marriage.

The missing woman came from Manitoba five years ago.
